

The word compost comes from the Latin for “to put together” and this is quite literally of what has been done with your bag of organic Compost.

Pruning Encourages Larger Blooms

You want to prune hydrangeas to keep them in shape and to keep them in control, so they don't get too large. And you want to prune them at the right time, so you don't sacrifice your blooms for the following year. You will find that if you remove some of the flowering wood by a third, that if you have fewer blooms the following year, those blooms will be larger. So if you just give it a haircut across the top, you'll get more blooms but they tend to be smaller.

Prune Hydrangeas Just Above the Node

You want to prune the top one foot and you want to make sure that when you make a cut that it's right above the node. So you don't have these long inner nodes. So you cut right above the node, and that's where the leaves come out of the stem

What is your waste footprint

Your old appliance will use more electricity than a new appliance, but DON'T throw it away unnecessarily as this just fills up landfills. Wait for it to break before you replace it, repair it or donate it.

KYALAMI INITIATIVE WITH TURFNET
Collecting all garden refuse from Kyalami Estate avoids garden waste being sent to landfill where it would rot and produce a toxic gas called methane, which contributes to climate change.

Residents will have their garden waste collected once per week from a Turfnet recyclable bag. Collections run from Monday to Friday: 8 am – 4 pm. All Residents will receive a bag of Compost and a “Positive Impact” newsletter once a month.
